Automated Medication Dispenser (AMD) Service

Providing technology to help you stay independent in the comfort of your own home.

Automated Medication Dispenser (AMD) is a Community Care Program (CCP) Service

The purpose of AMD is to improve medication adherence and promote independence and safety of the participants in their own homes as well as potentially reducing the need for nursing facility care.

What is an AMD service?

It is a portable, mechanical device for individual use in a participant's residence, that is programmed to dispense or alert the participant to take non-liquid oral medications. It also provides tracking and caregiver notification of missed medication doses. This system may provide additional medication specific directions, or prompts to take medications via other routes such as liquid medications or injections based on individual need.

What are the benefits?

- Installation and monthly service at no cost to the participant.
- Choice of a wide range of features.
- Reminders to take injections.
- A variety of dispensing medication options.
- Notification of designated responsible party when medications are not taken on time.

"I have such a peace of mind since my mother started using the medication dispenser system. She used to forget her medications, now she rarely misses a dose and if she does I am notified."

Who would benefit from the AMD service?

Persons who:

- take five or more medications taken two or more different times a day,
- understand the need to take medications, respond to alerts to take medication and be physically able to take medications independently from the AMD unit,
- have a willing and reliable responsible party to manage medications and act upon notices of missed medication doses,
- have a history of non-adherence to medication therapy,
- live alone, or do not have the availability of a caregiver to provide regular medication administration,
- have impaired motor function that limits the ability to handle medication receptacles and small pills,
- have tried alternatives such as pill reminders and phone prompts without success, and
- have recently transitioned (within 90 days) from a more restrictive care setting such as a hospital or nursing facility to a private residence.

Who is eligible?

An older adult must qualify for CCP to receive AMD. You are eligible for CCP and the AMD service if you:

- are sixty (60) years of age or older,
- are an Illinois resident,
- are a U.S. citizen, or legal alien,
- are determined to be physically in need of service, (meaning you are at least moderately impaired),
- meet the financial asset requirements (explained by a care coordinator during an in-home, visit),
- apply for Medical Benefits through the Illinois Department of Human Services, or are currently on Medicaid,
- meet the Illinois Department on Aging's screening criteria that identifies the potential to benefit from an AMD system and
- are willing to cooperate with a care coordinator and the AMD service.
